

The mission of the McCully Heritage Project is to provide facilities and programs for high quality environmental education and research for youth and adults and to provide the opportunity for the public to appreciate the cultural, historical and natural resources of the lower Illinois River valley.

This mission is accomplished through the following:

- 1) The MHP engages in responsible land stewardship and acts as an example for fellow landowners.
- 2) We provide opportunities for the public to engage with the natural environment.
- 3) We provide opportunities for environmental and historical research.
- 4) We offer outreach activities to inform the public about the cultural, historical and natural resources of the lower Illinois River valley.

The McCully Heritage Project is a nonprofit environmental and cultural education center in Calhoun County, Illinois. Throughout its history, the McCully Heritage Project has provided various environmental education experiences for visitors, from school field trips or summer camps to guided nature trails. The McCully Heritage Project strives to educate visitors about stewardship of the land, while maintaining agricultural fields and harvestable timber. Our programs are focused on birding, native plant restoration, trees, the history of agriculture & industry in the lower Illinois River valley, and land stewardship. A contribution from you will ensure the continuation and expansion of these programs.

The McCully Heritage Project is located one mile south of Kampsville, Illinois.
